

JOB DESCRIPTION

Status: At the time of the recruitment, candidates must have the status of Full Professor in the French academic system, or an equivalent rank at a foreign university.

Discipline: Political science/International Relations

Profile: The successful candidate will be able to demonstrate a strong previous international experience in both teaching and research. S/he should be a specialist in the field of strategic and/or diplomatic studies and will be expected to focus their research on change within the international system, sociology of international actors, and new issues in international security. The aptitude to teach and publish in English is a mandatory pre-requirement.

DUTIES

Research

For his/her research activities, the successful candidate will be affiliated with the Centre de Recherches Internationales (Centre for International Studies, CERI). S/he will be expected to develop innovative individual research projects and to contribute to collective research programs at CERI, in particular by taking initiatives aimed at strengthening cooperation within international academic networks.

Over the past decades, CERI has developed a specific approach to the study of IR, which relies on the use of sociological traditions and is marked by its openness towards normative issues. Today, this approach is still present within the centre's Research Axis 1, "Actors and levels of regulation in world politics", which the successful candidate is expected to join. Connections and collaborations could also be established with the Chair of Excellence in security studies and/or the CERI research group on multilateral action.

Teaching

Annual teaching duties are 128 master class-equivalent (CM) hours that can be divided into three 24-hour master classes and 56 CM hours of complementary pedagogical services (1 CM hour = 6.3 hours) at the three levels of teaching offered by Sciences Po: college (on one of the seven Sciences Po campuses), Master's, and doctoral.

Candidates will have to demonstrate their ability to teach general courses in International Relations, and their willingness to contribute to the supervision of doctoral theses.

Sciences Po is an equal opportunity employer and encourages women candidates to apply.

RECRUITMENT PROCEDURE

Pre-qualification

Before applying, candidates with the rank of professor at a higher education institution outside of France and who have not been certified by the French National Council of Universities (CNU) must contact the Sciences Po's Research Council to determine their eligibility for this position. They are requested to report to the selection committee's president, Frédéric Ramel (recrutement.ceri@sciencespo.fr), before January 10th, 2018.

Application

Candidates must fill in their application online through the “Galaxy” portal of the Ministry of Higher Education and Research (<https://www.galaxie.enseignementsup-recherche.gouv.fr/ensup/candidats.html>) between February 1st and March 1st, 2018.

The application should include the following documents:

- A cover letter presenting the research projects that the candidate intends to pursue;
- A CV and a comprehensive list of publications;
- 3 most prominent publications;
- A synopsis of courses taught and, if possible, course evaluations.

Applications must also be electronically submitted before 1st March 2018 to Frédéric Ramel, the president of the selection committee, to the following email address: recrutement.ceri@sciencespo.fr, as well as to Sciences Po’s academic centre: drh.poleacademique@sciencespo.fr.

The selection committee will examine applications and proceed to a short list of candidates who will be interviewed at Sciences Po.
