Panel 1. Nuclear Knowledges: findings and promises (9h15-12h)

Opening:
Christine Musselin, scientific director of Sciences Po

Speakers:
Benoît Pelopidas, Sciences Po-CERI / CISAC (Stanford), Nuclear Knowledges
Grey Anderson, postdoctoral scholar, Sciences Po-CERI, Nuclear Knowledges
Fabricio Mendes Fialho, postdoctoral scholar, Sciences Po-CERI, Nuclear Knowledges
Sébastien Philippe, postdoctoral scholar, Princeton University, Program on Science and Global Security, invited scholar CERI - Nuclear Knowledges
Nicola Leveringhaus, lecturer, Department of War Studies, King’s College London
Thomas Jonter, professor of international relations, Stockholm University; member of the advisory board of Nuclear Knowledges
Sharon Weiner, associate professor, American University, Washington D.C; member of the advisory board of Nuclear Knowledges

Chair:
Christine Musselin, scientific director of Sciences Po

Panel 2. Interdisciplinary perspectives on the research agenda (13h30-15h15)

Speakers:
Leopoldo Nuti, professor of international relations, University Roma Tre, head of the Machiavelli Center for Cold War Studies (CIMA), co-director of the Nuclear Proliferation International History Program (NPIHP)
Jean-Jacques Roche, professor of international relations, Université Paris 2 Panthéon-Assas
Thomas Lindemann, professor of political science, Université de Versailles St-Quentin-en-Yvelines (UVSQ) and Ecole Polytechnique
Clément Therme, research fellow for Iran, International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS)
Thomas Hippler, professor of contemporary history, Université de Caen Normandie
Daniel Steinmetz-Jenkins, Presidential Visiting Professor and Lecturer in the Religion Department, Yale University
Emmanuel Prados, head of STEEP (Sustainability, Territories, Environment, Economy and Politics), INRIA, Grenoble

Chair:
Nicolas Benvegnu, executive director of Forcast (FORmation par la Cartographie des Controverses à l’Analyse des Sciences et des Techniques), Sciences Po
Panel 3. What is left to be found: expectations from civil society, educators, diplomats and experts (15h30-17h15)

Opening:
Frédéric Mion, president of Sciences Po

Speakers:
Kazuhiko Nakamura, Minister, Japanese Embassy in France
Général Patrick Charaix, former head of the French Nuclear Air Forces
Louis Blin, historian and diplomat, French Ministry of European and Foreign Affairs
Jean-Maurice Crete, International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA)
Sonia Drôbysz, senior legal officer, VERTIC (the Verification Research, Training and Information Centre)
Jean-Marie Collin, spokesperson for ICAN France, vice-president of Initiatives pour le Désarmement Nucléaire (IDN)
Ronan Chérel, history and geography teacher, Rosa Parks high-school, Rennes-Vezin penitentiary center, founder of Mediaparks
Thomas Hofnung, journalist, The Conversation
Pierre Verluise, founder and director of Diploweb.com

Chair:
Julie Gacon, journalist, France Culture

Conclusion (17h15-17h30)
Benoît Pelopidas, Sciences Po-CERI, Nuclear Knowledges

Scientific coordinator: Benoît Pelopidas, Sciences Po-CERI, Nuclear Knowledges