Call for Manuscripts: European Review of International Studies (ERIS)

8 June 2017

Dear Colleagues,

It is now three years that European Review of International Studies (ERIS) has been established as an academic journal in the field of international affairs. Chris Hill has been recently appointed as the new co-editor, following John Groom who was on duty for three years.

Nine volumes of ERIS have now been published and we are looking for new manuscripts on IR theory, sociology of international relations and area studies.

We should like to ask you to circulate this letter and the leaflet attached to colleagues and to research students, inviting them to submit manuscripts for this peer reviewed journal, which seeks to widen the scope of debate in International Studies and in particular to provide opportunities for non-Anglophone European scholars.

Further information and instructions to submit a manuscript to ERIS can be found on our editor's website: <http://www.budrich-journals.de/index.php/eris>.

Do not hesitate to send us an email if you have any question.

Best wishes,

Christopher Hill, SAIS, Bologna and the University of Cambridge
