

Kei Hiruta, auteur de Berlin's Bête Noire : Hannah Arendt and Isaiah Berlin on Freedom, Politics, and Humanity à paraître (Princeton University Press) présentera dans le cadre du séminaire général :

'Beyond Cold War Liberalism? : Hannah Arendt, Isaiah Berlin, and the Question of Totalitarianism'

Introduction en français par Gil Delannoï. Exposé et discussion en anglais.

About the book: Table of Contents

1. Introduction
2. 'A Real Bête Noire'
3. Freedom
4. Inhumanity
5. Evil and Judgement
6. Utopias
7. Conclusion: Political Thinking

About the Author

Kei Hiruta is a Research Fellow in philosophy at Wolfson College, University of Oxford. Trained in both continental and analytic traditions of political philosophy as well as in intellectual history, he received a D.Phil. in Political Theory from Oxford in 2012. He has held fellowships and visiting positions at the Carnegie Council for Ethics in International Affairs, Columbia University, Hannah Arendt Center at Bard College, and the University of Tokyo. He is a co-founder and Associate Editor of Arendt Studies, and an Associate Editor of the Journal of Practical Ethics. He was the Chair of the Hannah Arendt Circle in 2014–15, and his edited volume Arendt on Freedom, Liberation, and Revolution is forthcoming from Palgrave Macmillan next year.