

Jurisprudences of Climate

Climate change and the legal tradition

McCourt Pavilion, Sciences Po, September 29th-30th
Organisers: Frédéric Audren & Alain Pottage

Contact and registration: events.edd@sciencespo.fr

Programme

Friday 29th September

- 13.00-13.30: Sheila Jasanoff (Harvard) Introductory remarks
- 13.30-16.00 Judith Butler (Berkeley) Climate sorrow and the politics of art
Doug Kysar (Yale) Unimaginable: hope and duty in the Anthropocene
Suzana Sawyer (UC Davis) Combustion, law, and unresolved complex mixtures
- Chair: Stephen Humphreys (LSE)
- 16.00-16.30: Coffee interval
- 16:30-19:00: Helena Alviar (SciencesPo) Granting rights to rivers in Colombia: theoretical influences and distributional consequences
Stéphane van Damme (ENS) Global or local? On the scales of climate between jurisdiction and science
Thomas Scheffer (Frankfurt) From re/forms to re/frames: climate litigation as existential litigation
- Chair: Hans Lindahl (Tilburg)
- 19:00-20.00: Reception

Saturday 30th September

9.00-11.30:

Julia Dehm (La Trobe)

Climate change, jurisdiction and the problem of limits

Andreas Folkers (Giessen)

Between finance and law: fossil fuel property as asset and liability

Dario Mantovani (Coll. de Fr.)

Lucretius, the Roman jurists and a 'natural contract' that is not a contract

Chair: Alain Pottage

11.30-12.00: Horatia Muir Watt (SciencesPo) Reflections