

Graduate Macroeconomics 1
Sciences Po, 2018 Autumn

Zsófia Bárány

Syllabus

This course consists of three main topics: economic growth, long-run inequality, and search and matching in the labor market. The first part of the course is an introduction to the theory of economic growth. We will use these models to shed light both on the process of economic growth at the world level and on sources of income and growth differences across countries.

Part 1: Economic growth

For this part of the course there are several textbooks that can be useful. Daron Acemoglu's textbook 'Introduction to Modern Economic Growth' (DA), Princeton University Press, is the main reference, but covers the topics much more in depth and more technically than what is required for this course. Barro and Sala-i-Martin, 'Economic Growth' (BSM), MIT Press, is another excellent reference, which contains the essence of the material. Finally, David Romer's 'Advanced Macroeconomics' (DR), McGraw-Hill/Irwin, also covers most of the theory.

1.1 Growth facts and the Solow model

- DA Chapters 1-3, BSM Introduction & Chapter 1, DR Chapter 1
- Jones, Charles (1997), 'On The Evolution of the World Income Distribution', Journal of Economic Perspectives Vol. 11, pp. 19-36.
- Sala-I-Martin, Xavier (1997), 'I Just Ran Two Million Regressions', The American Economic Review Vol. 87, No. 2, Papers and Proceedings of the Hundred and Fourth Annual Meeting of the American Economic Association, pp. 178-183
- Lucas, Robert Jr (1990), 'Why doesn't capital flow from rich to poor countries?', American Economic Review, Vol. 80, No. 2., pp. 92-96

1.2 The neoclassical growth model

- DA Chapters 5 & 8, BSM Chapter 2 & 3, DR Chapter 2 Part A

- N. Gregory Mankiw, David Romer, David N. Weil (1992): A Contribution to the Empirics of Economic Growth, The Quarterly Journal of Economics, Vol. 107, No. 2 (May, 1992), pp. 407-437
- Robert E. Hall and Charles I. Jones (1999): Why Do Some Countries Produce So Much More Output Per Worker Than Others?, The Quarterly Journal of Economics, Vol. 114, No. 1 (Feb., 1999), pp. 83-116
- Chang-Tai Hsieh, and Peter J. Klenow (2010): Development Accounting, American Economic Journal: Macroeconomics, 2(1): 207-23.
