

SOPHIE DUBUISSON-QUELLIER

Sophie Dubuisson-Quellier is Research Professor at Sciences Po and CNRS, and Deputy Director of the Centre de Sociologie des Organisations in Paris, France. She is working in the field of economic sociology and studies how consumers' economic behavior is shaped by corporations, governments and social movements.

She is a member of the French High Council on Climate (HCC) and chairs the Scientific Advisory Board of the French Agency for Ecological Transition (Ademe). Her work has appeared in several academic journals such as Social Movement Studies, Organization Studies, Journal of Consumer Culture, Sociologia Ruralis and International Journal of Consumer Studies.